

Heidelberg Catholic Church Records: Deaths 1839

Russian State Archives of Saratov

Fond 1166, Opus 1, Delo 107, pages 40 – 45 rev.

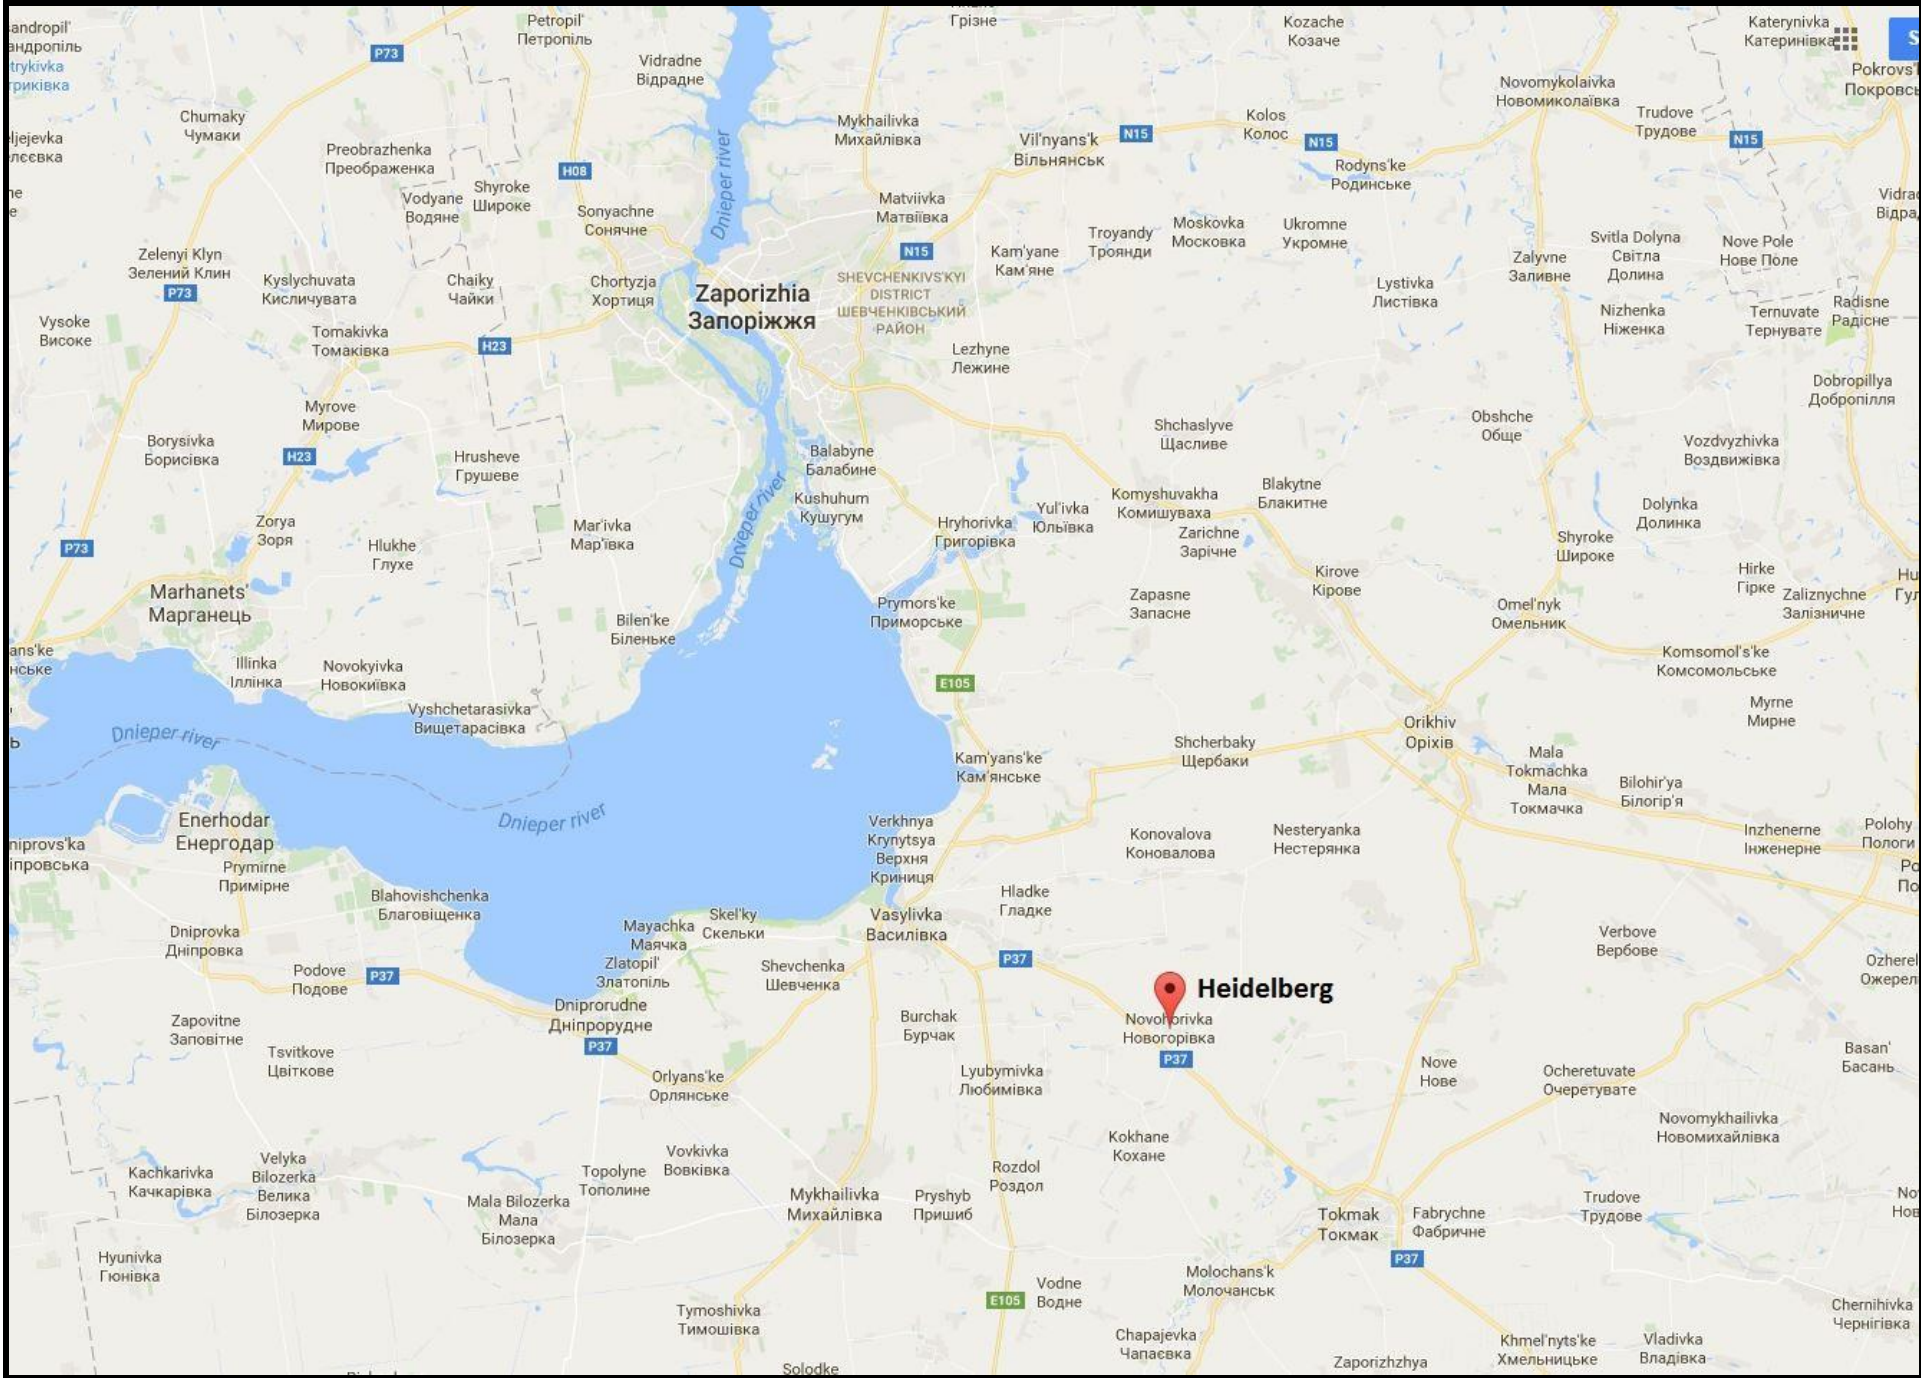

Forty-two deaths were recorded in the Heidelberg Catholic Church in 1839. These records were purchased in 2017 from the Saratov Archives as part of my personal research. My ancestral Schafer family were original settlers in Blumental colony, which belonged to the Heidelberg Parish. The Schafer family moved to Crimea around 1845. They are recorded in the Zurichtal 1852 Parish Lists. These death records were written in the Russian Cyrillic script. The hand-writing was difficult to read. Marina Vollmer of Germany read the records and created the index of 1839 deaths which follows.

Heidelberg was considered one of the Catholic Prischib colonies, located about 80 km south and a bit east of Zaporizhia in today's Ukraine. During Russian times, Heidelberg was named Shurawlewo, but it now goes by the Ukrainian name of Novohorivka.

The Catholic Parish of Heidelberg included the colonies of Blumental, Hochheim, Kostheim (until 1869, Leitershausen (until 1869), and Waldorf.

For locations of these colonies, see: <https://germans-from-russia-settlements.blogspot.ca/>
